NOTE. — This eighty-second annual report of the Education Society follows the report for 1897, which is numbered twenty-third. On the union in 1875 the ~~forty~~-ninth report of the American Education Society and the thirty-second of the American College Society were merged in the first annual report of the American College and Education Society. The series begun at that time has been continued in subsequent reports. The method is confusing, however, and has ceased to be significant. This report, therefore, which might have been called the twenty-fourth, resumes the original numeration, and appears as the eighty-second.

ANNUAL MEETING.

BOSTON, June 13, 1898.

THE Eighty-second Annual Meeting of the Congregational Education Society was held in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House, at 2 P.M., pursuant to the following call, which had been published in the Advance and Congregationalist of June 2 and 9:

"The Annual Meeting of the Congregational Education Society will be held in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House, Boston, on Monday, June 13, at 2 P.M. Congregational churches having contributed to the funds of the Society within the year may each send one delegate to the meeting, such delegates to be voting members of the Society during the year for which they were appointed."

The meeting was called to order by Rev. William H. Willcox, D.D., and led in prayer by Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, D.D.

Rev. William E. Barton, D.D., was chosen clerk.

The minutes of the last annual meeting and of the special meeting held July 8, 1897, were read and approved.

The annual report of the directors was read by Dr. Barton, approved, and ordered to be printed.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. S. F. Wilkins, having been audited by Mr. H. N. Ackerman, was read, approved, and ordered to be printed in the annual report of the directors.

Voted, that the thanks of this Society be hereby tendered to S. F. Wilkins, Esq., for his gratuitous and efficient services as treasurer during the past year.

In view of the recent vote of the Home Missionary Society at Cleveland, Ohio, recommending to the National Council that the six Congregational Societies unite in one annual meeting, it was Voted, that this Society favors a united annual meeting, with public exercises to be shared by our six denominational societies, and that Rev. W. E. Barton, D.D., the delegate of this Society to the National Council at Portland, Oregon, be authorized to vote for such a change in the present methods of the Societies.

The following gentlemen were then elected to be life members of the Society: Rev. Charles L. Morgan, D.D., Jamaica Plain; Rev. W. R. Campbell, Roxbury; Rev. A. P. Davis, Wakefield; Rev. Charles H. Beale, D.D., Roxbury; Rev. Charles A. Dinsmore, South Boston; Rev. W. H. Bolster, D.D., Dorchester; Rev. Eugene C. Webster, Neponset; Walter K. Bigelow, Esq., Salem; Frank A. Day, Esq., Newton; Fred L. Norton, Esq., Boston; H. N. Ackerman, Esq., West Medford; J. L. Gooch, Esq., Wakefield.

Upon motion it was Voted, that the following gentlemen form a committee to nominate life members of the Society: Rev. Charles B. Rice, D.D., Rev. B. F. Hamilton, D.D., Rev. J. W. Wellman, D.D.

A nominating committee, consisting of Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, D.D., W. L. Greene, Esq., and Rev. Joshua Coit, was then appointed to recommend officers of the Society for the ensuing year. The committee reported the following names, and upon ballot they were declared elected: Rev. William H. Willcox, D.D., president; Rev. James Brand, D.D., vice-president; directors for three years, Rev. W. E. Barton, D.D., David Fales, Esq., C. J. Hurlbut, Esq., J. W. White, Esq., Thomas Todd, Esq., Horatio S. Burdett, Esq.; director for one year, Frank A. Day, Esq. The nomination and election of further officers was postponed to an adjourned meeting.

Voted, that when we adjourn we adjourn to meet at 2 P.M., in Pilgrim Hall, on Monday, June 27, 1898.

Voted to adjourn.

Attest:

BOSTON, MASS., June 27, 1898.

Adjourned Annual Meeting of the Congregational Education Society, in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House, at 2 P.M.

Rev. William H. Willcox, D.D., in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, for the nominating committee, offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Rev. John A. Hamilton, D.D., corresponding secretary of this Society, has expressed a desire to be relieved from the heavy responsibility he has borne as corresponding secretary of this Society;

And whereas, it is the judgment of this body that it will be greatly to the interests of the Society's work that his counsel and active relations with the Society be continued so far as his health will permit;

Therefore, resolved, that it is the sense of this body that Dr. Hamilton be chosen honorary secretary of the Society for the ensuing year.

Resolved, that his special duties in this office and the pecuniary remuneration therefor be referred to the directors of the Society for definition, in consultation with Dr. Hamilton, with full power.

Resolved, that in view of Dr. Hamilton's recent illness and consequent need of a period of rest, it is the sense of this body that he should be allowed a vacation of at least two months, and his present salary be continued for that time.

In taking this action we wish to place on the records of the Society our warmest appreciation of the long and faithful services that Dr. Hamilton has rendered in furthering the ends for which this Society stands. We desire to express our appreciation of the genial and affable bearing which he has maintained towards the officers of the Society and the representatives of the institutions which the Society aids; the patience and forbearance and ability that he has shown in the trying exigencies through which the Society has passed in these recent years; the great wisdom and tact that he has shown in the difficult task of uniting the two Societies, and the complete success which has attended those efforts.

Resolved, that it is our earnest hope that he may soon be restored to perfect health, and that the Society may have the benefit of his wise counsel, his large experience, and his active services.

The nominating committee then presented the names of the following officers, who were unanimously elected; Honorary secretary, Rev. John A. Hamilton, D.D.; corresponding secretary, Rev. William E. Barton, D.D.; treasurer, S. F. Wilkins, Esq.; auditor, H. N. Ackerman, Esq.: director for one year, to fill the place of Frank A. Day, who declined, Walter K. Bigelow of Salem; director for three years, to fill the place of Horatio S. Burdett, declined, Rev. William R. Campbell of Roxbury.

Voted to adjourn.

EIGHTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY

(FORMERLY AMERICAN EDUCATION SOCIETY, AFTERWARDS AMERICAN COLLEGE AND EDUCATION SOCIETY.)

THE Directors beg leave to present herewith their Annual Report of the work of the Society for the year ending June 1, 1898.

The work of all benevolent institutions has been prosecuted during the past year under manifest disadvantages. The year began in a protracted period of financial depression, and has closed amid wars and rumors of war. Manifestly the times have been unpropitious for advance movements in philanthropic and educational work, and work already established has been maintained only at cost of heroic sacrifice and rigid economy. Such conditions affect peculiarly a work like ours. It has been a time of special appeals for organizations less remote in distance than many of those which we represent. It has been a time when institutions endeared to Christian givers have been in sore straits, and when some organizations hitherto prosperous have found themselves under necessity of soliciting contributions.

The Society's efficient Field Secretary, Rev. Frank L. Ferguson, received a call in the month of January to the Presidency of Pomona College, and he resigned to accept the same. The unanimous call of the Directors to Rev. George M. Ward was accepted by him, but the Directors later released President Ward at his own request, and to their great disappointment, that he might continue his work as President of Rollins College. The vacancy thus left in the home office is the more serious because of the present illness of the Secretary in Chief, Rev. John A. Hamilton, D.D. The year has not been devoid of progress, however, as will appear in the separate reports under the different departments.

STUDENT AID DEPARTMENT.

On account of the exhaustion of the special funds by which this department has been largely supported in the past the Directors voted at the beginning of this fiscal year to aid no new men. The result is a decrease in the number of men aided last year. The last Annual Report shows a total of 215 men aided in the seminaries and 106 in the colleges, making a total of 321. During the present year we have aided 140 men in the seminaries and 66 in the colleges, making a total of 206. The figures of last year indicate a falling-off of 26 in the number aided during the period. The figures of this year show a falling-off of 115 as compared with last year and of 141 as compared with two years ago. It will thus be seen that the Directors have met the conditions of the times with a vigorous retrenchment made imperative by the diminution of the Society's income.

During the year a number of conferences and associations have taken action looking towards the raising of the grade of the ministry. The present pressure upon vacant pulpits is so great as to lead many representative men to believe that this is a favorable time for a higher educational standard. The Society anticipated this action more than three years ago in its refusal to aid men during the Freshman year in college, and its requirement that students aided should belong in the upper two-thirds of their respective classes. A year ago in April the Directors voted that hereafter, in case of all newly-approved applicants from seminaries, college graduates, or at least such as have the degree of A.B., should, in the judgment of the Board, ordinarily have the preference in receiving the Society's aid. We also discontinued our aid to men in special courses, and these courses have been dropped from two of our theological seminaries. These changes have not passed unchallenged, and there can be no question that any such rules involve a measure of hardship in individual cases, but we believe that the action has been, upon the whole, a wise one. Compelled, as we have been, to retrench, it has seemed well to us to distribute our diminished income so as to promote the best possible results in scholarship and all essential qualifications for the Christian ministry.

INSTITUTIONAL DEPARTMENT.

The colleges now upon the Society's list are:

Pacific University.	Fargo College.
Pomona College.	Lake Charles College.
Rollins College.	Ridgeville College.
Fairmount College.	Salt Lake College.

A detailed account of the year's work in each of these institutions, with tabular statement showing the financial and scholastic condition of each, will be appended to this report. All of the schools have suffered from stress of the times, and some have been in dire need. The letters which have been received from their officers indicate a spirit nothing less than heroic on the part of both teachers and students. The general attendance has not greatly diminished, and in some cases it has materially increased. One of the sad features of the work of the year has been the Society's inability to assist, to the extent which it has desired, those institutions which would gladly have looked to us for increased aid, and whose necessities would have seemed to require it. In many cases teachers have labored in conditions of real distress with salaries long overdue. That the Society has been able to afford some measure of assistance has been a matter of gratitude; while all the time we have been oppressed because compelled to make such assistance pitifully small. In our present extremity we are unable to make new pledges to these institutions until we have fully paid the amount of our pledges now due; yet we look for the time, which we hope may not be far distant, when the amount of the Society's grants to the institutions upon our list may be more nearly commensurate with their growing and honorable needs.

The following collegiate institutions have received aid in larger or smaller sums from the Society since the year 1844:

Western Reserve College, Ohio.
Illinois College, Illinois.
Wabash College, Indiana.
Marietta College, Ohio.
Lane Theological Seminary, Ohio.
Knox College, Illinois.
Beloit College, Wisconsin.
Iowa College, Iowa.
Pacific University, Oregon.

Thayer College, Missouri.
Doane College, Nebraska.
Drury College, Missouri.
Colorado College, Colorado.
Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash.
Rollins College, Florida.
Yankton College, South Dakota.
Fargo College, North Dakota.
Pomona College, California.
Lake Charles College, Louisiana.
Ridgeville College, Indiana.
Salt Lake College, Utah.
Fairmount College, Kansas.

Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon.

REV. THOMAS MCCLELLAND, D. D., President.

This institution is now celebrating its semi-centennial. It is the oldest on the Pacific Coast, and was founded largely through the influence of Rev. G. H. Atkinson, D.D., the eminent pioneer missionary to Oregon. Dr. Sydney H. Marsh early became its president and gave many years of self-denying and heroic service to its development. His letters to prominent gentlemen in the East, setting forth the claims and prospects of the school, and his occasional visits hither in its behalf, secured for it a large and generous constituency among the older churches of New England and the Middle States. It may be said that the character of the institution through all its years has been a reflection, so to speak, of the strong and consecrated men by whom it was planted and nurtured. Like them it has stood both for sound learning and true religion, and has been very successful in the object it has thus sought to accomplish. The present trustees and faculty are worthy successors of those by whose prayers and labors the college was founded and has realized its growth.

It seriously feels the effect of the hard times. The closest economy has been practiced in every direction, and on the whole the current year has been a successful one.

Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington.

Rev. Stephen B. L. Penrose, President.

During the past year the energies of the college have been devoted to the raising of the remainder of the endowment fund. The Education Society, having assumed the unpaid balance of the sum to be raised on the New England field, thereby completes the record of its many years of service to this college, and refers to it in this connection only to bid it an affectionate Godspeed, as its name disappears from the number of institutions on the Society's list.

Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida.

Rev. George M. Ward, President.

The school year of 1897–98 has been a very successful one. The number of students has been large and the quality of instruction has been of the best. The elective system introduced for the first time at the beginning of 1897–98 has given entire satisfaction, and has done much toward stimulating the student body to more thorough work. It is the purpose of the college authorities to add new courses as fast as there is a demand for them. A considerable number have been added this year, and as the institution grows others will be added from year to year.

Rev. George M. Ward, president of the institution, will remain at Rollins, although flattering offers have been made him by other institutions in the North. Under the able management of Mr. Ward the finances of Rollins College are in better condition now than ever before in the history of the institution. Past encumbrances have to a large extent been removed, and there is a brighter financial outlook for the future. This fact will enable Mr. Ward to devote more of his time and energy henceforth to the strictly educational interests of the college and the State.

Fargo College, Fargo, North Dakota.

REV. HENRY C. SIMMONS, President.

The past school year has been eminently successful in its work. The students in attendance in all departments have been about 180 in number. Prof. P. G. Knowlton, dean, and Miss Annie L. Adams, lady principal, are new members of the faculty and are able and successful teachers. The faculty and officers of the college are thoroughly united and devoted to their work. The students come largely from the farms and small villages of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Most of them work their way. There is a simple genuineness, without affectation, about their religious life.

Systematic Bible study is required and for the most part cheerfully taken up on the part of the students. It is made interesting, and a good knowledge of the Bible is gained by those taking a full course in the college. A gratifying progress has been made the past year in the grade of students coming to the college. They have better preparation, and enter upon the regular work in the preparatory and college departments. The classes are growing in size and in thorough scholarship.

The financial condition of the college is improving. Its floating indebtedness has been considerably reduced and an effort is being made, with promise of speedy success, to wipe out the whole debt. Little progress has been made in raising endowments the present year, as it was thought better to endeavor to clear off the floating indebtedness and raise money to pay the teachers. The field of Fargo College in North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota is of the best. A rich agricultural region occupied now largely by a foreign population, but rapidly becoming Americanized, offers the very best class of students. The churches of North Dakota, though struggling in a new country for self-support, believe in, and so far as they can, assist the college. The influence of the college upon the churches is also very marked. It is seen that those who come back from the college have been helped there to higher Christian living, and the new life they bring to the churches is most helpful and stimulating to every department of Christian work.

Fargo College is an illustration of what has been seen over and over again in the Western Christian college, as related to the formation of a strong Christian public sentiment. No better Christian work is being done for the extension of Christ's kingdom in our own country than in the Christian colleges of the West.

Pomona College, Claremont, California.

Rev. Frank L. Ferguson, President.

This institution, having called as its President the Rev. Frank L. Ferguson, begins what promises to be a new and hopeful era in its history. The debt has been provided for, the endowment has been completed, and prospects are favorable for the erection of a new science hall. The college is only seven years old, but it has nearly one hundred students in the college department, and almost another hundred in its preparatory school, besides those who are taking special instruction in music and art. The institution maintains a high grade of instruction and has a strong hold upon a large and increasing constituency. The Society has made a generous pledge toward the current expenses of the college, which removes the institution from our list, and we dismiss it and its president with hearty good will.

REV. HENRY L. HUBBELL, D.D., President.

Lake Charles College is located at a strategic point in Louisiana. Four lines of railway converge at Lake Charles. It has a remarkable waterway, with an average depth of forty feet to deep water at the Gulf of Mexico. A large Northern and Southern population have settled in and around it during the last fifteen years. It is the commercial center of a region rich in natural resources which, when developed, will enable its people to sustain its own institution.

The college has already demonstrated its usefulness and success, doubling its attendance in the last two years — 106 in the preparatory department and fourteen in the two lower classes of the college department. It is the only institution giving the higher education in a region larger than Massachusetts and Connecticut, and one destined to become the home of a large population.

It is urgently needed for the education of the pastors of Southern Home Missionary churches. The Christian college is indispensable to every wide and growing community, if it is to exist and remain Christian. It is essential to the right education of its industrial, civic and religious leaders. The college closes its eighth year — the most prosperous it has ever had so far as its work, the good will of the people, and the outlook for the future are concerned, but its worst in finances.

Ridgeville College, Ridgeville, Indiana.

The year just closed has been the most promising since this institution came into our hands from the Free Will Baptists. The attendance has not been much greater than last year, but the students have shown a better spirit of study and a deeper interest in the work. There has been but little effort to secure students outside the immediate vicinity, but there has been a growing sense of confidence in the work and in the college. The low price of tuition and board makes Ridgeville a desirable place for students of limited means. Five young men have attended this year who have decided to enter the ministry, three of them that of our own denomination. The teachers have continued their work this year practically on faith, coming to the end of the year with less than one-third of their salaries paid. There is probably no school on the Society's list that can show greater self-sacrifice on the part of the teachers. The churches in the State have never felt able to do all that was expected of them. This has given the impression that they were indifferent to Christian education. Whatever the future of the college is to be, the money thus far expended has accomplished much good, and it is only to be hoped that from some source the necessary few thousands can be secured to carry it on in its good work, so that in the very near future it will be an honor and a blessing to the State and nation.

Fairmount College, Wichita, Kansas.

Rev. N. J. Morrison, D.D., President.

This institution was reported at more than ordinary length last year by reason of the somewhat unusual circumstances attending its recognition by the Society. It is situated at Wichita, a city of 25,000 inhabitants and an important railroad center. It is the commercial center of southwestern Kansas and a distributive point for the commerce of Oklahoma, and thus draws from a region with over half a million inhabitants. It is in the midst of a rich agricultural section, and has received strong local support since the beginning of its existence as a college. The past year has been one of progress, notwithstanding the financial situation. The growth in the number of students is greater than has been shown by any other college in the Society's list in the corresponding years of its beginning.

ACADEMIES.

The following academies have been on the list of the Society during the past year:

Franklin Academy.	Kidder Institute.
Hull Institute.	Windom Institute.
Kingfisher Academy.	Weeping Water Academy.
Chadron Academy.	Ahtanum Academy.
Puget Sound Academy.	Southern Kansas Academy.
North Wisconsin Academy.	Iberia Academy.
Ward Academy.	German-English School.
Rogers Academy.	Proctor Academy.

Kidder Institute, Kidder, Mo.

This school is the outgrowth of a desire, on the part of the friends of education in Northern Missouri, for a higher institution of learning in which to educate their children. For beauty of location, for healthfulness of climate, and for thrift of the people a more favorable situation would be difficult to find.

In many respects the past year has been one of unusual prosperity. More students than usual have been in attendance; more have entered upon regular courses, and will, in consequence, remain longer in school; more than ever are looking forward to complete college courses. A class of seventeen were graduated in June. The number of those who become teachers is rapidly increasing, thus ever widening its circle of influence, and gaining for the school an increasing and influential constituency, so that the future outlook is very bright.

The property of the Institute, consisting of the large three-story brick building, the ladies' dormitory, and the beautiful campus of forty acres, is valued at $30,000. In order to provide accommodations for the rapid increase of patronage, the school was compelled, though reluctantly, to incur an indebtedness which, three years ago, amounted to $9,000. Despite the hard times, this has been gradually reduced until it is now only $6,000. This has required the most rigid economy and sacrifice. The debt has taken such a form that not only the interest, but also $500 on the principal — about $1,000 — must be paid annually. The income from tuition will almost cover the teachers' salaries, and nearly all the money is in sight to meet the other expenses, except the debt. The school has strenuously tried self-maintenance as far as possible, and has solicited but little aid from the East, but the time has come when such assistance must be given or the usefulness of the school will be impaired.

Windom Institute, Montevideo, Minn.

This institution opened last fall under a financial cloud. The teachers, however, all stood loyally by it and were rewarded, first by an increased attendance of pupils, and later, at the State Association of Congregational churches held at Montevideo, by most liberal contributions amounting to over $10,000. These subscriptions were followed up by a committee appointed for the purpose, until at the present time there is hope that the $10,000 will be paid in before the beginning of a new school year. This will relieve the academy from about $800 a year of interest money, which has so crippled it in the past, and leave a debt of only $4,000.

While these gifts have greatly encouraged and stimulated the work, they have left the school in need of funds for current expenses.

The attendance has been good. The winter term saw nearly a hundred in the regular academic work, about thirty in the business department, and a few in the music department. The spring term showed an enrollment of sixty academic students.

Franklin Academy, Franklin, Neb.

No other academy upon the Society's list has been more widely or favorably known in the East for at least a dozen years. Its urgent appeals for Eastern benevolence have had generous responses. Its management has commanded confidence at home and abroad. Though in an agriculturally uncertain region, it has been favored with a good patronage, and has sent forth a great number of young men and women to the advanced courses of study in college or to the useful and honorable occupations of life. Realizing from the first that it was located in the midst of a great missionary field, its trustees determined to provide for a part of the annual expenses by soliciting the gifts of Eastern friends, although no year has passed without equally faithful solicitation from the churches of Nebraska. Few missionary academies have been so richly blessed with an efficient and devoted principal and pastor of the local church, who has borne the chief responsibility of soliciting funds. The suspension of Stockton Academy in Kansas, about forty miles south of Franklin, enlarges its field; and the increasing success of various irrigating systems and of raising alfalfa upon lands hitherto unproductive give encouraging evidence of an increasing and more stable population. Years of meritorious work have demonstrated the right of this academy to continued existence and a greater generosity on the part of the Christian public.

Hull Institute, Hull, Iowa.

Like Kidder and Windom, Hull is in the midst of a vast agricultural section. If one were to survey the entire West for the purpose of locating academies, it would seem as if these three would be entitled to the highest consideration. They are distant from large cities, where first-class high schools are maintained, and are patronized by pupils from the small villages and rural communities, where the advantages of secondary education are not provided. The local friends of Hull began with the idea that they were not able to found a college, and Iowa had already an undue proportion of colleges. They have, therefore, adhered to the policy of developing a high-grade academy, and to this end they have devoted their energy and their means. Besides a recitation hall, it has a girls' dormitory, a magnificent campus, and an endowment fund of $12,500. Mr. C. L. Davidson, who has been its most generous patron from the first, has offered $5,000 toward a permanent fund of $25,000, toward which there have been other substantial contributions. It is believed that an energetic campaign will secure the required amount before very long from the Congregational people of Iowa. The organized Congregationalism of Iowa ought to put Hull Institute beyond the necessity of appealing annually for small gifts for current expenses; and Mr. Davidson and the other trustees should be made to feel that their generous interest in the welfare of this academy is shared by other Congregational brethren throughout the State. If financial provision could be made, Hull Institute, as well as Kidder and Windom, would quickly spring into first prominence among the preparatory schools of the West.

Kingfisher Academy, Kingfisher, Oklahoma Ter.

This has been a good year in the history of the school at Kingfisher. Owing to abundant crops and advancing prices the people of Oklahoma have found their courage renewed and the territory is now making rapid advancement. The excellent crop and the good price of wheat mean better home, school, and church privileges for many a farmer's family.

A general rally of the local community in behalf of the school during the year resulted in donations to the amount of $3,500. This, it is thought, will cover the cost of the college building and make possible its use next year. The building is of ample dimensions, of native stone, "beautiful for situation," on the crest of the hill, overlooking the creek and the little city of Kingfisher. The local support is good, but the need of donations is greater. A hundred students will call for housing next fall.

The graduating class of the preparatory department numbers five. One of these is in Cuba — a fine lad, much beloved by teacher and classmates. The faculty has been strengthened by the coming to the normal department of Miss Charlotte White of Athol, Mass. The scholarly spirit grows with each year's work. The teachers are ready to make all possible sacrifice for the work of their choice and love, and hope for help from their brethren in Christ.

Weeping Water Academy, Weeping Water, Neb.

The school year 1897–8 has shown largely-increased interest in the work and a good increase in numerical attendance, and a still better one in regularity.

It has not seemed wise to push the matter of new buildings. To have done so would have meant to neglect old and valid obligations assumed from the church with the present academy buildings. It has seemed best to clear these up first. A large current indebtedness was paid off in December, 1897, and Weeping Water and vicinity furnished one half the money.

In the canvass now being made for clearing up all indebtedness Weeping Water has pledged one-sixth of the required sum already. This certainly shows good home interest.

In many ways the work in Weeping Water affords an excellent test of the problem of Christian education. There are many schools in Eastern Nebraska, but no section of the State needs more a Christian academy at its best. The churches are growing to realize this, and the school is planning for a large future.

Chadron Academy, Chadron, Neb.

The year just passed has been one of stress, and yet one of progress. Owing to various special causes the attendance has been small, but the student body has been unusually choice. An entirely new faculty took charge last fall, and it has devoted itself earnestly to the work. The student societies have been enthusiastically sustained, and a series of addresses by prominent men has been provided in connection with the meetings of the literary society. An arrangement has been made by which the best musical advantages to be had in this section of the country will be offered next year in connection with the academy. An offer of free scholarships has been made to first-honor graduates of high schools. The Rev. J. D. Stewart, Sunday school superintendent, gave a course of normal lessons in the Bible this spring, and President Perry of Doane College and the Rev. Dr. F. A. Warfield of Omaha traveled nearly five hundred miles to be present and take part in the exercises of Commencement week.

Chadron Academy is the highest institution of learning in a region containing twenty-one counties with an area of 28,000 square miles. It is intended principally for three classes of students — graduates of high schools, young people who have been teaching with but a meagre education, and young people, often men and women grown — whose educational advantages have been very limited. One such this year, who had never been to school except for a few weeks, was older than the principal. There is promise of a large attendance next year, but there is great need of money for the growing work.

Woodcock Academy, Atahnum, Wash.

(Formerly Atahnum.)

In memory of Deacon Fenn B. Woodcock, the largest donor to the establishment and maintenance of this institution, its name has been changed from Atahnum Academy to Woodcock Academy. The marked improvement which was seen in the school last year has been still more prominent during the school year now closing. Seventy-five students have received instruction during the year, with a maximum attendance of forty-five at any one time. This would have been larger but for an attack of measles during the winter months, compelling the absence of many pupils. For five months during the year the young men and the young women have maintained separate daily prayer meetings, resulting in eleven conversions. The lack of money has been a severe trial to the trustees as well as to the principal, and the latter has served at great sacrifice.

Puget Sound Academy, Coupeville, Wash.

During the past year of financial distress this school has done excellent work, but the attendance has been very small, twenty-five being the maximum number of students under instruction at any one time during the year. Some question has been raised about the wisdom of maintaining the school in this place. The principal and his fellow-workers have done faithful service during the last few years, and the results, while not large, have been full of promise for the future of the young people trained in this institution.

Southern Kansas Academy, Eureka, Kan.

This institution has closed another school year, in which its former standard of excellence has been well maintained. The attendance has been a little larger than during the previous year. While not aspiring to the dignity of a college, it has been the constant purpose of the trustees and faculty to do thorough academic work. Through the efforts of the teachers and Christian students, regular prayer meetings have been maintained with a good degree of religious interest among the pupils generally. This is the only distinctively Christian academy of our denomination in the State. The field is large, the need is great, but one thing is sadly lacking — that is, an endowment fund. With an adequate endowment the school could accomplish much for the young people of the region.

North Wisconsin Academy, Ashland, Wis.

During the year this school has labored under depressing conditions because of the original debt upon the buildings. This fact and the delay in the revival of the business interests of the region have affected the attendance. Notwithstanding these discouragements a choice company of earnest students have been present with an increased number during the spring.

The academy is fortunate in being able to retain the same corps of teachers whose thorough instruction has gained a desirable reputation for the school. Their sacrifices have materially commended the school to outside friends. The graduates of last June are now scattered in Oberlin, Rockford, Beloit, and Ripon Colleges. The religious life of the academy is improving, and is quite marked in its effect.

The debt at the close of the school year was about $18,000. Through the liberal concessions of creditors and the labors of Secretary Clifton the effort to remove the debt is making hopeful progress, and the friends hope to be able to announce that the academy will open next fall without a debt. Unless the present effort is successful this useful school, in a large and developing region, may be lost to the cause of Christian education.

Iberia Academy, Iberia, Mo.

During the past year the church and academy have been yoked together. The Congregational interests as a whole have had a year of growth unsurpassed in the history of the community. The attendance upon the academy has been almost exactly the same as last year, but the property has been greatly improved. The grounds have been fenced and seventy-five trees set out. The building has been roofed and kalsomined and painted. Three of our graduates are in Drury College, and a large number of former students are teaching in the district schools. The students of the academy have all been doing hard, honest work, and have been our mainstay in all religious work. They support a Christian Endeavor Society and a Young Men's Christian Association, also a Young Women's Christian Association. Almost all of the students belong to classes of Bible study. The character of the whole community is changing, in a marked degree, through influences emanating from the academy. Every teacher is a missionary, and in a certain sense every student is, also. Iberia is a missionary center.

The courses of study are strong and thorough, and run nearly parallel with those of Drury Academy, and admit to the latter's Freshman class. Every teacher is a college graduate and a consecrated Christian. The cost of running the church and the academy for the past year has been about $2,000. This is not high when we consider that five teachers devote themselves to the work. The country and people are poor, but about $1,500 of the $2,000 has come from the field. Of the balance the way is clear for all but $175. It is hoped that this sum will soon be raised. Aside from this there is no debt. The academy is situated in a region about as large as the State of Connecticut, entirely destitute of facilities for higher education. The nearest Congregational church is thirty miles distant. The opportunity is great, but it is no greater than the need. We cannot but believe that the Divine blessing has attended, and will continue and support the work.

Ward Academy, Burnside, So. Dak.

The continued life of this school has depended upon the extraordinarily faithful and heroic work of Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Canfield. There being no high school in the county, these devoted people were prompted to lead in a movement for the establishing of this academy. Though occupying a limited field, it is rendering very necessary and excellent advantages to the young people in attendance. The local friends have done their utmost toward the erection of the building and the annual support of the school. It has been heartily indorsed by the State Association of Congregational Churches of South Dakota, and no doubt many in the East, who have become familiar with the self-denying and efficient missionary labors of Mr. and Mrs. Canfield, will be glad to coöperate with them in sustaining this frontier academy.

Wilton German-English School, Wilton Junction, Ia.

This institution is beautifully situated on the Rock Island Railway twenty-seven miles west of Davenport, Ia., and the Mississippi River. It is thus near the center of four States largely populated by Germans. Several decades ago our Davenport Association recognized its advantages as an educational center, and took what was then "Norton Academy" under its care. Four years ago the two substantial brick buildings, with the finely-shaded campus of nine acres, were transferred to the present Board of Trust for its new mission, for which it seems ideally located. It is in the midst of a rich farming district containing many towns and cities, which are largely German. The institution is thoroughly American in spirit, and cultivates the highest American Christian ideals. It is gratified at being able to record an increasingly large enrollment of young people from both American and German homes. But its specific reason for being is the raising up of young Germans for the German-American ministry and for leadership among their own people. To this end such young people are encouraged to use the English and German languages side by side in the classroom, the college home, and literary societies. Instruction is now provided in a full academic course and two years of the regular college curriculum. From one-fourth to one-third of the instruction is given in German by a faculty selected with special care for this difficult work. Of the one hundred and forty-nine students enrolled this year twenty have the ministry in view — a number which places it in the vanguard of institutions of like grade in providing a well-educated Congregational ministry. At the same time it provides thorough training through the Sophomore year for those not caring to make special use of the German. The institution imperatively needs a larger income for current expenses and better equipment. It is the only Congregational institution of the kind in the whole country, and the number of its candidates for the ministry is exceptionally large.

Rogers Academy, Rogers, Ark.

This hopeful institution appears for the first time on the Society's list. It was established fourteen years ago at Rogers, Ark., and has been under the care of the Home Missionary Society, which transferred it to the Education Society within the past year. It has had a steady growth, and has raised the grade of its instruction year by year until last year, when all of its preparatory grades were eliminated and it entered upon its beginning as an academy pure and simple. It had 111 students, of whom 35 were from out of town, and it graduated a class of 15. Its receipts from tuition have risen within the past four years from $1,610 to $2,156. The academy has a valuable property which has been assigned by the Congregational Home Missionary Society to the Congregational Education Society, which greets the new member of its family heartily and with large hopes for its future.

NEW WEST DEPARTMENT.

The extended visit of Dr. Hamilton to our New West schools has brought to the directors fresh and valuable information concerning educational and religious work in Utah and New Mexico, which is given herewith at length. The schools at present under the Society's care are as follows:

New Mexico.	Utah.
San Rafael.	Lehi.
Atrisco.	Heber.
San Mateo.	Farmington.
Barelas.	Coalville.
Cubero.	Bountiful.

UTAH.

The highest estimate places the population of Utah at less than 240,000. Probably 200,000 is considerably nearer the exact number, the Gentile population being scarcely one-fifth of the whole. That under such circumstances the influence of Mormonism should be dominant in all that relates to the government of Utah were but natural. It was hoped by many that the coming in of statehood would gradually lessen and finally do away with the preponderance of Mormon influence. But, according to the testimony of many whose observation should be reliable, the contrary is proving to be true. Statehood is having the effect to enhance rather than lessen the Mormon power. A strong, not to say terrible, array of statements to this effect appears in a late issue of the New York Independent from Prof. M. E. Jones, a long-time resident and scientist of Utah. On the other hand it should be said that some Gentiles of perhaps equal prominence protest that Professor Jones's statements are unfair and misleading. But it is believed that those holding the latter opinion are largely in the minority.

The Society's mission schools among the Mormons are demanded not simply to furnish young people the means of education, in the common acceptation of that term, but also and especially to furnish them the true ideals of life. That such has been done, and is still being done, to an extent which should be most gratifying to all friends of the cause, no one acquainted with the facts will hesitate to believe. Relative to the schools now under the Society in this field, the following may be said:

Salt Lake College.

Salt Lake College, or Hammond Hall, is located near the center of the city of Salt Lake. It has a commodious brick edifice with extensive grounds. There has also recently been erected upon the campus a smaller brick building used as a dormitory. This property altogether is estimated to be worth from $80,000 to $100,000, and is entirely free from debt. The Burlington school building has also within eighteen months been turned over to the trustees of the college, the same being now converted into a tenement house which rents for $35 a month. The latter is well located for its purposes, but has a mortgage upon it for $2,500. The property known as Gordon Academy, at Ogden, has also been turned over to the trustees and is rented to the city of Ogden for $500 a year, with the option of purchase at $15,000. It is probable that such sale will be made within two years. These properties, all told, will amount in value to from $100,000 to $125,000.

An earnest attempt was made about two years ago to unite the Presbyterian and the Congregational institutions of Salt Lake City. This movement started with the Presbyterians in Salt Lake City, but failed at length to secure the approval of the Presbyterian Board in New York. It is still kept alive, however, in Salt Lake City, it being the earnest wish both of the Presbyterians and Congregationalists of that community that the movement referred to be perfected. Until this can be accomplished, it is believed to be clearly wise that Salt Lake College be maintained upon its present basis. Dr. Pearson's recent offer of $50,000 on condition of the raising of $100,000 endowment will create a new and hopeful interest.

Proctor Academy.

Proctor Academy at Provo, about fifty miles from Salt Lake City, has five teachers. Miss Bessie C. Peek is principal; Miss Louise Dickinson, assistant principal; Miss Wilhelmina Holtzschue, grammar department; Miss Ivy G. Loar, intermediate department; Miss M. Alice Isely, primary department. The number of pupils is 151, next to the largest number in the history of the school. The average attendance is large. This academy is under excellent management. The teachers maintain an efficient Sunday-school and a Christian Endeavor Society. They also maintain church services, as far as circumstances will permit, by reading sermons, singing, etc. There is a Congregational church organization in the town, but without a pastor at present. This is the only academy, in the strict sense, under the immediate management of the Society in Utah. This school is supported entirely by funds from the treasury of the Congregational Education Society. It sustains an intimate relation to Salt Lake College, being a feeder to that institution, a considerable number of its graduates having gone already to the college. It may be said that this is perhaps the most distinctively Mormon of all the large towns in Utah. The school is only a short distance from the Brigham Young Academy, a very large institution under the immediate management of the Mormons. Nevertheless, Proctor Academy does not suffer in the judgment of the people, either in respect of the character of its teachers or the work which it is doing.

Lehi.

Lehi is a flourishing town about thirty miles from Salt Lake City. The mission school here is of comparatively high grade, being partly academic. The building has three schoolrooms, also quarters for the teachers, which are convenient and comfortable. The teachers in charge are Miss Jessamine A. Shepherd, whose salary is paid by the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Boston, and Miss Ada E. Wilson, whose salary is paid by the Vermont and New Hampshire Woman's Associations. The number of pupils enrolled is seventy; average attendance from forty to fifty. The ages of those in the primary department range from five to thirteen, and in the higher department from fifteen to twenty-five. The Sunday-school is held in the same building. The larger part of these pupils are in the day school also, but a few come from outside. Much time is given in the day school to Bible reading and study. The school in many ways is a superior one. It is to be regretted that there is no Congregational church in the town. The population is large and almost wholly Mormon. The industries are farming and sugar manufacturing. It is a prosperous and growing town.

Coalville.

Coalville is about fourteen miles from Park City. It is at the present time in a state of financial depression, owing to the closing of the silver mines at Park City; but, in the main, the town is regarded as a permanent center whose business will continue to increase. The mission school here is under the care of Miss Florence E. Baker, whose salary is paid by the Illinois Woman's Home Missionary Union. Seventy pupils are enrolled. The average attendance is forty-five, and the ages of the pupils range from five to eighteen, the average age being thirteen. The Sunday-school numbers twenty. The school building has one room only, with a seating capacity of from forty-five to fifty when full — too large a school for one teacher to do the best work.

Another room could be added with small expense. The teacher has at times maintained Sunday services by reading sermons, etc., these meetings being often well attended. This would seem to justify the hope so fondly entertained by her and by many of the patrons of the school, that the Congregational church be maintained there, or at any rate that Sunday services be maintained in charge of a stated minister. The industries of Coalville are mining, agriculture, and sheep-raising. It is a railroad center.

Heber.

The town of Heber is some fourteen miles from Park City and between forty and fifty miles from Salt Lake City. It is located in an extensive and well-watered valley under comparatively careful cultivation; the farming industries being chiefly those of stock-raising and dairying. Brick-making and stone-quarrying are also carried on, the material from these quarries being much sought from abroad. The village is large and contains many fine houses. The people are almost wholly Mormon. The mission school at this point is under the care of Miss Stella A. Eaton, whose salary is paid by the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Boston, and Miss Mary Kugler, who is supported by the Wisconsin and Iowa Woman's Unions. The number in attendance at this school is 110, the primary room having 69 pupils and the grammar department 41, the latter comprising pupils whose ages range from 12 to 20. The building is a good one, although not capacious. The teachers' quarters are separated from the schoolroom by a simple partition. The Sunday-school numbers from 75 to 100 — the average attendance from 55 to 60. There is no church in the place save one Mormon church, and a small and apparently dying Methodist church. A town of such dimensions and prospects should not be neglected in the matter of providing church privileges. The approach to the town at the present time is by stagecoach entirely; but the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad is already being extended from Park City to this point.

Bountiful.

Bountiful is a flourishing settlement of Mormons situated seven miles from Salt Lake City and connected with it by rail. The school is one of the oldest of the New West schools. At present it is under the management of two teachers, Miss Gertrude Whiteman and Miss Edith Buckland. The salaries of both these ladies are paid by the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Boston. The number of pupils enrolled is forty-seven. All being present, this would be a sufficiently large number for the accommodations, although the school building is a good one, and is well located with reference to the population. A special good fortune has come to Bountiful in the fact that a church has been established in connection with this school, the pastor being the Rev. David Peebles, who has had large experience in missionary work in Utah and elsewhere.

Farmington.

Seven miles up the valley from Bountiful is the town of Farmington, another hamlet of considerable population. The school at this point is also one of the oldest of the New West, but has never been very successful owing largely, as it would seem, to lack of interest on the part of the community. The number of pupils is about thirty. This number could be greatly increased if additional teaching force were employed. The building is a good one, although small; but it has a large campus. The teacher is Miss Eugenia Munger. The Gentile population is comparatively small. There is no church here aside from the Mormon, although the region is properly within the pastorate of the minister at Bountiful. The valley in which these two towns are located is productive and prosperous, comprising probably from 2,000 to 2,500 people. There can be no doubt that this section will continue to increase in population and in wealth, and it is hoped that the beginnings of the church now at Bountiful will be nurtured and sustained. To drop the schools now would seem to be a calamity, yet to maintain them successfully will call for new efforts and possibly some increase in the pecuniary grants. The Home Missionary Society is showing new interest in this difficult but important field.

The Utah mission schools are almost wholly supported by funds collected by certain of the Woman's Missionary Unions, such funds being intrusted to the Congregational Education Society for distribution. With propriety, therefore, may these Unions look to this Society for information as to the condition and prospects of these schools. To them, and to all friends of this work, it may be said that in the main it is progressing encouragingly. The numbers in attendance are generally quite equal to the provisions for the instruction of the pupils. In most of the schools considerably larger numbers could be secured were the means of accommodation proportionately increased. This is true, not merely in relation to the department of secular instruction, but of the religious also. In the latter respect, however, the need of additional and more appropriate means for its support are increasingly felt; as, for instance, those young people who from time to time renounce Mormonism for Christianity after the New Testament pattern, feel the need of Christian fellowship in the sense contemplated by the Christian church. But for the most part our mission schools are without such fellowship. The teachers, moreover, feel the need of the church that they may themselves be helped to be better instructors, as well as better exemplars of the religious ideals which they aim to hold up before their pupils.

With a view to meet this want the plan has been proposed to place at the head of the respective schools, as far as practicable, a teacher who should also act as preacher and pastor. This plan is approved both by the directors of this Society and the officers of the Home Missionary Society, and is likely to be put in operation in two of our schools during the coming year.

NEW MEXICO.

At the time of the discovery of the American continent, New Mexico, as it is now called, had a large population of Indians, known as Aztecs or Toltecs. They had walled towns, stone dwellings, flourishing manufactories of cotton and wool, and successfully carried on agriculture. During the period from 1537 to 1599 Spanish adventurers in large numbers penetrated this region. Forts were built and colonies established in the name of the King of Spain. It continued under Spanish rule for nearly one hundred years. In 1680 the Indians succeeded in driving the Spaniards from the country; but in 1698 the latter regained their ascendency. In 1822 the inhabitants of New Mexico united with those of old Mexico in throwing off the yoke of Spain. From that time until 1846 the New Mexicans were governed about the same as were the States of old Mexico. In 1848 the whole region was ceded to the United States by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

The New Mexicans are a mixture of Indian, Spanish, and American. In general they are of rather small bodily proportions, but hardy and very capable of physical service. In their mode of living they are simple and primitive. Their houses are chiefly adobe, with low rooms and earth floors, and generally not more than two rooms in one house. Families, sometimes numbering twelve or more, make their home in a single room. The language spoken is almost entirely Spanish. Very few can speak or understand the English. As respects religion, they are almost universally Roman Catholics. Save in a very few of the larger places, less than one-half of the children of school age attend the public schools. These schools are of the most limited character, their barest maintenance depending upon the amount of money collected in the district from the license of liquor sales. According to the report of the present government, the population of the territory is 200,000, of whom 70 per cent. are Mexicans, which means that seven-tenths of the voters of the territory are of the same race.

As to property, it is said that till within a few years past 90 per cent. of the acquired lands, and of the cattle and sheep, and of the general business of the territory, belonged to the Mexicans, and 10 per cent. to the Yankees, so-called; but today the Yankees have the 90 per cent. and the Mexicans the 10 per cent. The significance of this plainly cannot be duly estimated on grounds of property considerations alone. With the pecuniary loss thus experienced, most naturally a great moral loss has also been suffered. Their former supremacy in matters of business gone, they are left, as it were, to the sense of their own inferiority when contrasting their condition with that of their American neighbors. Out of this has gradually grown a relation on their part not unlike that of servant to master. Many of them, indeed, have ranches of their own, with a few cattle and sheep, but it is generally on a small scale, and poverty characterizes the condition of large numbers of them. It is hardly necessary to say that there is room for mission schools among such a people, not simply for their own sake, but also for the sake of the government of which they form a part. Of such schools the Society has at the present time five. We may speak of them in their order as follows:

Los Ranchos de Atrisco.

The school at Atrisco is located about three miles from Albuquerque, on the southern bank of the Rio Grande, among a Mexican population of three or four hundred. It has been established for several years, has generally had an attendance quite as large as the room accommodations would justify, and has exerted a positive and elevating influence in the community. The present teachers are Miss Ida Frost, whose salary is paid by the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Boston, and Mrs. Grace Birlew Hernandez, whose salary is partially paid by the Connecticut Woman's Union. The enrollment of pupils is sixty-nine, of whom forty-eight are present this term. The building was erected with funds partly given by the Congregational church in Albuquerque and partly by the Mexicans themselves. It is a good building, with two rooms. A strong religious influence has always characterized this school. Early in its work conversions to Protestantism took place, and subsequently a church was established. This church is growing, and consists almost entirely of Mexican families. The church is under the direction of Rev. Sebastian Hernandez, a young Mexican from old Mexico, who, having been brought into contact with Protestant missionaries, was interested in the truths presented by them and became an earnest convert.

Barelas.

The pastorate of Mr. Hernandez properly extends across the river to the suburb of Barelas. Here, too, is a mission school of the Society, under the care of Miss Mary A. Osgood, whose salary is paid by the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Boston, and Miss Mabel Milligan, whose salary is paid by the Minnesota and South Dakota Unions. This section is almost entirely Mexican, there being more than three hundred of that class in the district. The school is held in an adobe building erected by the Society. It has somewhat commodious rooms, although a part of them at present are in disuse. The whole number of pupils enrolled in this school is seventy; in regular attendance, fifty-four. Many more have applied, but cannot be received for want of room for school purposes exclusively. In view of the fact that a considerably larger attendance could easily be secured if accommodations were sufficient, it is urged by some friends of the school that the teachers' quarters be changed and adapted to classrooms. This probably could be done at little expense.

San Rafael.

The community of San Rafael is about one hundred miles west of Albuquerque. The schoolhouse includes also a dwelling house, the latter having been enlarged recently by Rev. Gordon E. Birlew, who is missionary in that section, and whose wife is teacher. The school numbers about forty Mexicans, a considerable number of whom are from thirteen to fifteen years of age. A Sunday-school and Sabbath services are maintained in the school buildings. The influence of Mr. and Mrs. Birlew is to a marked degree elevating and spiritual.

This village constitutes the center of a population that is wholly Mexican. It is situated in an extended plain, which is watered by numerous springs flowing from the hillsides and furnishing sufficient water for the proper irrigation of the district if economically used. The population, which is tributary directly to San Rafael within a radius of 70 miles, more or less, is as follows: 38 miles to the north, San Mateo, having 400 inhabitants; 30 miles to the east, Cubero, having 400 inhabitants; 20 miles east and north, Cabolleta, having 300 inhabitants; 20 miles to the south, Cebolla, having about 100 inhabitants; farther south at Atarque, 200 inhabitants; on the west, at a distance of 65 miles, is Gallup with another small hamlet — these communities altogether numbering at least 2,500 Mexicans. There is good reason to believe that the population will increase materially from year to year, as the section is in many parts well watered and capable of large agricultural development, and in other parts there are abundant forests adapted to the supply of excellent lumber.

San Mateo.

The school building at San Mateo has been enlarged by Mr. Birlew at an expense of about $200, the same having been contributed by the Woman's Union of New York, which also pays the salary of Mr. and Mrs. Moya, who have maintained the school during the past year. They are both students from the school at El Paso, Mrs. Moya being from old Mexico. The teaching has been done chiefly by her, though Mr. Moya assisted in the schoolroom in addition to his main work as preacher and pastor. Within the last few months Mrs. Moya has been suddenly stricken blind, and her work, in consequence, has been entirely suspended. This is to be very much regretted, as these two people have been self-denying and very successful in their labors, especially Mrs. Moya, who is said to have been a very inspiring and popular teacher, thereby influencing many pupils to attend the school. Many tears were shed by that simple Mexican community when this young minister and his wife were compelled to leave. This is regarded as one of the very important points to be held for joint purposes of church and school work. Mrs. Talamantez, from El Paso, has been appointed to the place of Mrs. Moya. The number of pupils in attendance has been forty, and as many more would gladly attend if provision were made for them.

Cubero.

The teacher in the school at Cubero is Mrs. L. A. Collings, whose salary is paid by the Illinois Woman's Home Missionary Union. The number of pupils is twenty-nine, and the average attendance is from fifteen to twenty. This is as large a school as one teacher can easily handle. A greater number of pupils might easily be secured, as there are in the hamlet fully seventy children of public school age. A small public school is kept in the town three or four months in the year, according to the amount of the funds derived from liquor licenses. It is strongly urged that two teachers be employed in this mission school. A Mexican student, who has been through a partial course of study at El Paso, is temporarily pastor in a hamlet not far distant, and comes to Cubero semi-occasionally to hold meetings. The community in which this school is located is some six or seven miles from the railroad. It is a place of considerable business for that section, and has a population already of several hundred. It is considered one of the strong and permanent Mexican communities, and a promising missionary point for a conscientious and capable teacher. While earnest effort has been put forth in this school, and no doubt excellent Christian influence has been exerted, the teacher has been under the embarrassment of being without assistance, and has found it impossible to meet fully and satisfactorily her ideal of what should be done there. It is strongly recommended by Mr. Birlew, and Mr. Ashmun, superintendent of missions, that an assistant be given. The school building is commodious, a part of it being new, also the result of the self-denying handiwork of Mr. Birlew. Probably an assistant adequate to meet the wants of Mrs. Collings could be procured for $250. This would call for about $800 for the two teachers.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING.

It has been the belief of Mr. Birlew that something in the line of industrial instruction of a practical kind is absolutely demanded in this general section for the best progress of the school and missionary work. The people, though fortunately situated for carrying on agriculture, are yet indolent and without knowledge of farming utensils save the most primitive. Though the advantages for irrigation are good, the results are very meager because of the want of economy in the use of water. Large quantities of this are wasted, so that, notwithstanding they might have plenty of moisture, they often suffer from drought; yet even under such circumstances considerable wheat is raised, while there is absolutely no opportunity for the proper grinding of the same at a point nearer than Albuquerque (one hundred miles distant). Substantially the same may also be said as to the absence of advantages of saw mill and blacksmith shop. Scarcely a board or a shingle is available for the uses of the district, except as brought by rail one hundred miles, and this notwithstanding the easy accessibility to the numerous forests of the surrounding mountains; while the working of iron for the common necessities of the different hamlets is so limited and rude as to be scarcely worthy of mention.

In respect to the New Mexico mission work in general it may be said with emphasis that the utmost harmony exists between the representatives of the Congregational Education Society and the Congregational Home Missionary Society in that field. Mr. Ashmun, the territorial superintendent, is a very good friend of this Society's schools, doing everything in his power to assist the teachers in their Sunday-school and other religious work. It is through his wise and earnest coöperation that the school at Atrisco has a church connected with it under the pastorate of Rev. Sebastian Hernandez; also that the school at San Rafael has a church and the faithful support of Missionary Birlew. Clearly this coördinate movement of the two Societies should be encouraged, for the schools alone could not be expected to do all that is required in the conduct of Protestant missions in this most needy but promising field.

ITEMS WORTHY OF SPECIAL MENTION.

One important achievement of the year has been the completion of the canvass for the Whitman endowment on the New England field. This effort to raise the endowment, prosecuted under great difficulties because of financial conditions of the times, had so far advanced that there remained of the portion to be raised in New England but $8,700. The Society having agreed to coöperate in the raising of this amount, it was deemed best that the account should be closed and Whitman removed from the Society's list. The Society has, therefore, assumed this obligation, and the college has taken itself from the list of institutions aided by the Society with mutual and hearty good feeling.

The Trustees of Pomona College having called the Rev. Frank L. Ferguson to be its President, the Directors, in accepting his resignation, adopted the following resolution: "In accepting the resignation of the Rev. Frank L. Ferguson as Field Secretary of the Congregational Education Society, the Directors desire to express and put upon record their hearty appreciation of the energy and success with which he has managed the affairs of his office, the large increase in contributions to the Society through his systematic and continued efforts, and the business-like administration of the general office of the Society, which has been in no small measure accomplished through his efforts. The Directors express their earnest hope that the work to which he has gone may be crowned with abundant success and his work prove a blessing to himself and the college."

The Rev. George M. Ward, having accepted the call of the Directors to the office of Field Secretary, asked their permission to withdraw his acceptance and to remain with the college, of which he has proved the efficient head.

Deeply regretting the necessity of releasing him, and with entire confidence in the disinterestedness of his motives, the Directors adopted the following resolution: "That Mr. Ward be released from his promise to serve the Society as its Field Secretary. While taking this action the Directors desire to express herewith their high appreciation of the character and ability of Mr. Ward, and their deep sense of the Society's loss in failing to secure him in its service; but, in view of the fact that unexpected and very encouraging possibilities have opened to the college through reliable promises of large financial assistance on condition of Mr. Ward's continuance at its head, they yield their preference to his deep convictions of duty in the matter, and assure him of their cordial wishes for his success in the important work to which he feels constrained to address himself afresh."

DECEASED.

The following life members of the Society have died since the last report:

Ebenezer Cutler, D.D.
Thomas Doane, Esq.
Joseph T. Duryea, D.D.
J. E. Fullerton, D.D.
Samuel Holmes, Esq.
W. S. Houghton, Esq.
Hon. Jonathan A. Lane.
Lyman Mason, Esq.
Hon. J. Gregory Smith.

All these gentlemen had been members for several years. All of them deserve, and several of them require, special mention.

Mr. Doane was born in Orleans, Mass., Sept. 20, 1821, and died at West Townsend, Vt., Oct. 22, 1897. He studied at Phillips Academy, Andover. After three years in the office of Mr. S. M. Felton of Charlestown, a noted civil engineer, he became head engineer of a division of the Vermont Central Railroad. In 1863 he was appointed chief engineer of the Hoosac Tunnel, and had a large share in its construction. He ran the first locomotive through it. He became interested in railroad building in Nebraska in 1869, and took a prominent part in establishing a college in what is now the town of Crete, twenty miles west of Lincoln. He secured for the site of the college a square mile of ground, and made generous donations to the college which bears his name. Mr. Doane held many offices connected with business and charitable institutions, and was widely known as a philanthropic and public-spirited Christian citizen. He was for forty years a deacon of Winthrop Church, Charlestown. He left a wife and four children. Of his three daughters, one is the wife of Rev. D. B. Perry, president of Doane College; one the wife of Rev. William O. Weeden, and another the wife of Mr. Henry B. Twombly, a lawyer in New York. His son, Rev. John Doane, is pastor of a church in Lincoln, Neb.

Dr. Cutler was born in Royalston, Aug. 21, 1822; graduated at Vermont University, and from Andover Seminary in 1848. He became pastor of Union Church, Worcester, in 1855. In 1880 he was made pastor emeritus, and since that time has lived a quiet life among his own people. He died at his home, Jan. 16, of pneumonia, after a brief illness. His widow survives him.

Dr. Duryea was born in Jamaica, L. I., in 1834. He graduated at Princeton College in 1856, and studied in the Theological Seminary there three years. After preaching three years in Troy, he became pastor of the Collegiate Reformed Church in New York city. He was with the army in the service of the Christian Commission during the Civil War. In 1867 he became pastor of the new Classon Avenue Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, which grew rapidly under his care, becoming one of the strongest in that city. In 1879 he entered upon the pastorate of the Central Congregational Church, Boston, where he remained ten years. In 1889 he accepted a call to the First Church, Omaha. There he labored indefatigably till ill health compelled him to lay down his charge. After several months of rest he became pastor of the First Reformed Church, Brooklyn. He resigned from that church last February, and was considering an offer of a professorship in the theological department of Rutgers College, New Jersey, when he was seized with grip and died suddenly in Boston, May 17.

Mr. Lane was born in Bedford, Mass., May 15, 1822, and died at his home in Boston, June 5. From early childhood he lived in this city. He was educated in its grammar and high schools. In 1837 he entered the dry goods business, in which he has continued ever since under various firm names, the present house being the Allen Lane Co. He served in the lower branch of the State Legislature in 1863 and 1864, and in the Senate in 1874 and 1875. In 1878 he was appointed to fill out an unexpired term in the governor's council. He became president of the Mercantile Library Association of Boston in 1875, and his management contributed largely to revive its waning life and extend its usefulness. From 1887 to 1894 he was president of the Boston Merchants' Association. Some years ago he was president of the Boston Congregational Club. He was a loyal member of the Union Congregational Church in this city, a director of the American Congregational Association, and actively interested in many organizations for philanthropic and charitable objects.

the Directors; shall make known, by personal presentation, correspondence and otherwise, to State and local associations and conferences, to churches and individuals, the objects and claims of the Society; shall notify all meetings of the Society and of the Board of Directors; shall obtain the fullest possible information respecting all applicants for aid, whether students or institutions; shall furnish for the presiding officer at each meeting a docket of the matters to be considered; and shall prepare an annual report of the work of the Society, and submit the same to the Directors before the annual meeting.

The Treasurer shall have charge of the funds intrusted to the Society and keep an accurate account of the same, showing from what sources they have come, for what purposes they have been given, and where they are deposited, or in what securities invested. His books shall always be open to the examination of any Director or member of the Society. He shall give bonds for the faithful discharge of his duties, with such sureties as shall be satisfactory to the Directors, and shall make no investment of the Society's funds without their approval. At each regular meeting of the Directors he shall give a report of the state of the treasury, including a list of all donations received and payments made since the last meeting; and at the annual meeting of the Society he shall present a written and audited report of the receipts and disbursements of the year, the condition of the treasury, and the amount and form of the Society's investments.

The Auditor shall audit all accounts of the Treasurer, and examine the invested funds of the Society, and give to the Directors his certificate therefor in writing.

The Board of Directors shall have charge of all affairs and manage all business of the Society concerning which no other provision is made. They shall appoint committees to examine and recommend students for assistance, and shall take such action upon these recommendations as they may deem wise. They shall determine what institutions, academies, or schools of any kind shall be aided or maintained, and shall grant them money, as the state of the treasury may permit. They may by vote authorize the sale or conveyance of any real estate the Society may own, to such person or persons and upon such terms as they may determine. Such conveyances to be signed, executed, acknowledged, and delivered in the name of and in behalf of the Society by the President or Vice-President as hereinbefore provided. As soon as practical, after the annual meeting of the Society, the Board shall meet for organization and for the election, from their own number, of a Finance Committee and such other committees as they may see fit to appoint. They shall also have power to appoint District or Field Secretaries, or establish any agency which they may consider necessary, and shall have power to fill, until the next annual meeting, any vacancy in their own number or in any office of the Society. The Board of Directors shall present a report of the work of the Society at each annual meeting.

ART. VI. The Directors shall hold regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, except that of August. Special meetings shall be called at the written request of three Directors, by giving four days' notice, by letter, to each member of the Board, stating the time, place, and object of the meeting. Seven Directors shall constitute a quorum. The meetings of the Board shall ordinarily be held in Boston, but one meeting at least in each year shall be held in Chicago. All meetings shall be held in the office of the Society, either at Boston or Chicago, unless otherwise ordered.

The Western members of the Board, that is, members residing west of the State of New York, shall hold stated meetings at such times as they may appoint; and they may, whenever they see fit, designate one of their number to attend any meeting to be held in Boston, and his traveling expenses may be paid by the Society; and the Eastern members shall have the right, in like manner and upon the same terms, to designate two of their number to attend any meeting to be held in Chicago.

The Western members of the Board, while having part in all the affairs of the Society, shall be particularly charged with the duty of becoming acquainted with the condition of academies and lower schools aided by the Society, and with the wants of the field in that relation. They will be expected to give counsel upon the appropriation of money for such academies and schools, and they shall, once at least each year, transmit to the Board at Boston a summary statement of the condition and requirements of the work of the Society, as viewed by them, and this statement shall be a special topic of consideration at the first meeting of the Board after its reception.

No action shall be taken at a meeting held in either section of the country in respect to which the judgment of the members resident in the other section is specially needed, unless seasonable notice shall have been given that such action is contemplated.

A full and attested copy of the record of each meeting held in Boston shall be immediately forwarded to Chicago, and shall be either filed or transcribed in such a manner as to form a permanent record at Chicago; and an attested record of the doings of each meeting of the Board held at Chicago shall be entered upon the permanent record of the Board in Boston. A summary statement of the business done at each meeting of the Western members of the Board shall also be transmitted to Boston.

Any Eastern Director who shall be absent from one-half of the stated meetings of the Board held during any one year at Boston, or any Western Director who shall be absent from one-half of the stated meetings held during any one year at Chicago, including the meetings of the Board and of the Western section of the Board, unless excused for such absence for adequate reason by the Board or its Western section, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have vacated his position as Director, and the vacancy thus created shall be filled by the election of some other person at the next annual meeting of the Society.

ART. VII. This Constitution may be changed only by vote of two-thirds of the members present and entitled to vote at a meeting of the Society duly called, notice of the proposed change being given in the call of the meeting at which action is to be taken.

BY-LAWS.

STUDENTS.

SECTION 1. The Board of Directors shall appoint suitable committees at different institutions throughout the country to examine and recommend candidates for the Society's aid. Each committee shall consist of not more than four persons nor less than two, one of whom shall be unconnected with the institution.

It shall be the duty of the committee to make careful inquiry concerning an applicant's testimonials, his religious character, his motives for seeking the ministry, his abilities, his attainments, and his need of pecuniary aid, etc., and his willingness to conform to the rules of the Society. If the committee decide to recommend him they shall state his name, age, residence, occupation, place of education, church membership, need of aid, and any other facts which they deem important. They shall also make careful inquiries from time to time concerning the deportment and proficiency of each student receiving aid from the Society through their recommendation, and advise the continuance of such aid, or not, as they deem wise.

No person shall receive the Society's aid before he is sixteen years of age, is fitted to enter college, is in need of financial aid, and has been a professor of religion for at least one year. He must furnish satisfactory evidence of ability and of Christian character, and express a purpose of obtaining a thorough education in college and theological seminary. In exceptional cases, however, the Board of Directors may grant aid to other candidates who, in their judgment, have such piety and talents as will fit them, through the aid the Society may furnish, to render valuable service in the ministry. But no one shall be aided from the funds of the Society who indulges in the use of tobacco in any form or of intoxicating liquor as a beverage.

Any student applying for assistance must furnish to the committee by whom he is to be examined satisfactory and sealed testimonials from three reputable persons well acquainted with him and his circumstances, stating his age, residence, pecuniary need, moral and religious character, church connection, talents, attainments, and his purpose to devote his life to the ministry. If there is no examining committee in his neighborhood the Secretary of the Society may be notified of his wish for aid, and a committee will be appointed to examine him. A candidate who has been examined and recommended to the Board of Directors may be received conditionally for a period of three months, and will be expected to renew his application and make his returns to the Board in season for each appropriation. Any student who fails to comply with this requirement is liable to forfeit his appropriation.

If any student, receiving aid from the Society, marries during his course of study, his appropriation shall cease, unless by special vote of the Directors to the contrary, but this rule shall not debar the Directors from aiding at their discretion a student who is already married at the time of making his application.

The amount appropriated to each recipient of aid shall be determined from time to time by the Directors as the state of the treasury may warrant; but not more than twelve regular appropriations shall be made to each student during his college course, and during his theological course not more than nine. Before receiving a grant the candidate shall subscribe the following obligation, which shall remain in the possession of the Society:

"I do hereby covenant and agree with the Congregational Education Society that if I relinquish my preparation for the work of the ministry or fail to enter upon, or for three years to continue in, that work, except for reasons satisfactory to the Board of Directors; or if the aid of the Congregational Education Society is withdrawn from me for any failure on my part to comply with its rules, I will within three years thereafter, or as soon as possible, return to the said Society all money received from them with interest on the same from the time of my receiving it.

Witness my hand and seal this.....day of.....189 , in presence of .....

SEC. 2. The Scholarships of this Society shall be either permanent or temporary. A permanent scholarship shall consist of a gift of one thousand dollars; and a temporary scholarship of an annuity or subscription of seventy-five dollars a year, continuing for seven years. For every temporary scholarship the Directors will endeavor so to aid in educating one worthy man as to secure his entering the Christian ministry; and for every permanent scholarship (the income only of which shall be appropriated) the Directors will aid into the ministry, as such income may enable them, a continuous succession of laborers.

A scholarship founded by an individual shall bear the name of the donor, unless he shall assign it some other; and one founded by several contributors shall bear such name as they may select, or such as the Directors may give it. Any donor may appoint a candidate for his scholarship, provided the nominee seems to the Directors to have the necessary qualifications; and each scholarship shall have placed upon it, as soon as may be after it is founded, some promising student who is taking a regular course of study. The Society will act as the almoner for any benevolent individuals who desire to assist worthy young men to prepare for the ministry or to procure a Christian education, and will take charge of any funds intrusted to it for this purpose, applying them for the use of the objects and persons designated.

INSTITUTIONS.

SEC. 3. The Society will aid Colleges, Academies, Training and Mission Schools, with the special purpose of lending them such a degree of assistance as will promote their development most rapidly and bring them at the earliest period to a condition of self-support.

COLLEGES.

SEC. 4. No college can be placed upon the Society's list until it has presented to the Directors a copy of its act of incorporation and of its by-laws; the names of its Trustees and officers and the number of its students; and all documents and information necessary to satisfy the Directors in regard to its permanency and success, its relation to the State and the Congregational churches thereof, and its need of the assistance sought. It must be under the control of a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees, a majority of whom shall always be members in good and regular standing in Congregational churches.

Its application must be made by a formal vote of its Board of Trustees, and no such application can be approved by the Society so long as it has upon its list another college in the same State. Its Trustees must also accept the agreement with the Society which is appended to these by-laws, and furnish a copy of the same duly signed and sealed. No college can be adopted until it has a freshman class of at least four students, and all money received from the Society (except such as may have been designated by the donor for some other use) shall be applied by the institution to the payment of salaries, to the purchase of books or apparatus, or to the permanent endowment of chairs of instruction.

ACADEMIES AND MISSION SCHOOLS.

SEC. 5. The academies and other schools aided fall naturally into two classes — those which have been already incorporated and organized, and those established in localities where it might not be feasible to create at once local corporations.

In order that an institution of the first class may be enrolled upon the Society's list it must be legally chartered under a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees, a majority of whom shall always be members in good and regular standing of Congregational churches, and must have secured, in fee simple and unencumbered, sufficient grounds for building sites and campus, and assets, in buildings or in money, or in both, to the amount of ten thousand dollars. It must be indorsed by the State association or conference of Congregational churches, and by the local association or conference within the bounds of whose territory it is located; and it must annually report to the State association or conference, and receive the continued approval of the same, so long as it receives aid from the Society. It must have such a number of students and such evidences of permanency as shall be satisfactory to the Directors; must give thorough preparation for college, and maintain the characteristics of a vitally Christian school. Its principal shall always be a Christian man, and special attention shall be given to the study of the Bible and the development of Christian character. All money received from the Society must be used in the payment of the salary of the principal or teachers, and no part of it shall ever be applied to the payment of debts for other things without the consent of the Directors. No mortgage shall at any time be put upon the property of the institution except that, before the first appropriation is made, the Trustees shall execute in favor of the Congregational Education Society a trust mortgage upon its entire property for the repayment of all money at any time received through said Society in case the said institution shall at any time or to any extent disregard the aforesaid terms and provisions.

SEC. 6. In order to secure the early occupation of promising fields, and also to exert a more direct influence through the agency of Christian education in fields not yet provided with good common schools, this Society shall have the power to establish and temporarily maintain academies, training, and other schools in localities where it would not be possible or advisable to create local corporations. These it may own, manage, and control at its discretion, with the ultimate purpose of placing them under the care of self-perpetuating Boards of Trustees or of disposing of them as the best interests of Christian education may seem to demand.

SEC. 7. It shall be the duty of the president or principal of each institution that receives aid from the Society to report to the same at least annually the financial condition of the institution, its number of students, and all such facts in regard to its prosperity as it may be desirable for the Society to know.

SEC. 8. These by-laws may be amended at any regular meeting of the Board of Directors, notice of the proposed amendment having been given in the call of the meeting at which action is to be taken.
